

BE A PART OF THE BIG ISSUE 'STRENGTH IN NUMBERS' CAMPAIGN

More than 46,000 Australian women are homeless every night without safe or secure housing. To help address this alarming problem, The Big Issue has developed the Women's Subscription Enterprise to create employment opportunities for homeless and disadvantaged women who are ready to make a change in their lives.

The Big Issue magazine is a cross-section of general interest stories, arts, entertainment and current affairs. With an editorial team headed by Walkley Award-winning journalist and author Alan Attwood, the magazine is a high quality read, and is loved by readers for its distinctive brand of irreverence.

Women are employed to pack and dispatch subscription copies of The Big Issue magazine each fortnight and gain income, new skills and career pathways for the future. Every 100 subscriptions of The Big Issue magazine sold, provides 1 job for a disadvantaged woman – so every subscription counts!

There are 92 women employed already, but many more are on the waiting list.

There is 'Strength in Numbers' and the collective purchasing power of the community can make a real difference to the lives of homeless, marginalised and disadvantaged Australian women.

If you already purchase The Big Issue magazine from your local vendor, consider a subscription as a gift for family and friends!
